

WHAT YOUR RATES PROVIDE

With a population of approximately 155,000 across one of the largest Local Government Areas in NSW, Council provides a wide range of services and facilities designed to benefit the Campbelltown community and foster a sense of community spirit.

The services we provide include the traditional 'roads, rates and rubbish'. The money collected from rates fund the operation of a variety of services which benefit our residents and businesses.

This brochure illustrates the services provided by Council that your rates contribute to. These include Education and Care Services, sporting and recreation facilities, local roads, environmental protection, waste collection, public libraries and more.

Campbelltown is emerging as an important regional centre with items of significance including the University of Western Sydney (UWS) including the School of Medicine, two TAFE colleges, a major regional hospital, major regional shopping centre and a passenger and goods rail line.
