

Entrepreneurship Facilitator Service

SYDNEY SOUTH WEST (CAMPBELLTOWN)

Entrepreneurship Facilitators provide free and practical assistance to support and encourage individuals to start a business as a way to create their own job.

Who can access the service?

Anyone wanting to start their own business can access services from an Entrepreneurship Facilitator. There is a particular focus on encouraging entrepreneurship among mature age Australians, especially those at risk of losing their job due to redundancy.

I have a business idea, what next?

Your experienced Entrepreneurship Facilitator can help you develop your idea into a business by providing free mentoring and business support including:

- helping you develop or refine your business idea
- assisting you to understand how to go about starting a business
- helping you develop a marketing plan for your business
- working with you to identify your business needs
- referring you to other appropriate support and assistance.

Many mature age Australians are well-placed to consider self-employment and use their skills to start their own business. Facilitators are there to support those thinking about whether small business is for them, working with local start-ups in the area, and helping anyone looking to get their existing business off the ground.
