Dear Parent,

Campbelltown City Council’s Education and Care Services supports family’s decision to feed children bottles containing cow’s milk, soy milk, infant formula or breast milk.

Educators are able to heat your child’s bottle, however there are guidelines that we must follow to be able to do so safely.

Cow’s milk, soy milk and infant formula will only be heated in a container of boiling water or a bottle heating unit and Educators will test the temperature of the milk by shaking a small amount onto their wrist.

Please indicate below the type of milk your child will require while in care:

Cow’s milk Soy milk Formula Breast milk

Please indicate below how you would like your child’s bottle to be heated:

Container of boiling water Bottle heating unit

Other _____

The Australian Breastfeeding Association recommends that breast milk be warmed using a container of boiling water. Breast milk is a bodily fluid and will not be tested on the skin for correct temperature.

Please indicate below the exact heating times required for your child’s bottle of breast milk:
